“Don’t Weep For Me”

Don't weep for me, for I am home. Don't weep for me, my time here is done. Don't weep for me, for I love you so. Don't weep for me, let me go. I need not your tears of sorrow. Instead just know my love carries you to tomorrow. The love you gave made my life complete. I hold it dear so please don't weep Remember always how I touched your heart. Don't think of this time we will be apart Remember how I held you when you were sad And how I could make you laugh when you were mad I will always love you like no other So pass on that love to love another Don't weep for me for I am home Don't weep for me my time here is done Don't weep for me for I love you so Don't weep for me let me go The love you gave made my life complete I hold it dear so please don't weep.

Obituary

Doris Margaret Anderson was born on December 10, 1937, she was the daughter of the late Clyde and Maggie Anderson. Doris attended the Duval County School System, graduating from Stanton High School, she later attended Cortes Peters College, and moved on to Howard University, in Washington DC. Doris settled in Washington and worked for the government, where she traveled overseas many times, she worked for approximately forty-three years before retiring and returning to Jacksonville, Florida.

Doris knew the Lord at an early age, she loved going to church and serving the Lord. Her mother, Maggie and sister, Elouise was always a special part of her life, and loved dearly. Doris was a giver, she always donated to different charities.

Doris attended church, until she couldn't get around due to her illness, but even then, she always had her bible, and prayed.

Doris was preceded in death by her parents, Clyde Sr. and Maggie Anderson; two brothers, James and Clyde Jr.; one sister, Elouise.

Doris leaves to mourn two brothers, Fred Anderson (Marilyn) and Gary Anderson; niece, Sylinda; special cousins, Johnnie and Francis whom took special cared of Doris; special cousin, Dollie Simms; and a host of nieces, nephews, cousins, and friends.
